Seek Compromise Between 2 Powers

France Insists She Cannot Accept Parity With Italy

LONDON, March 28.—(AP)—American and British delegates to the five power naval conference turned their attention today to Italy with a hope of finding some kind of a compromise from the representatives of the Mussolini government. Meanwhile most of the delegates and conference observers worked to offer a security pact which will be made to France as a price of reduction of her naval figures and a consulative pact into which America may be drawn, continued as a topic today.

Italy has stood her guns and demands "parity with France." France insists that she cannot accept parity with Italy and the Rome government which is contending for the right to build up with France's total with no attention or capacity to do so.

The task awaiting for the American and British delegates is to get France and Italy face to face across one table to discuss the differences.

NEW YORK, March 28.—(AP)—Raymond A. Gallagher, armored car driver, who stole $63,424 from a bank car he was driving last October 17, pleaded guilty to grand larceny in general session court here today.

He was arrested last Monday in New Jersey and brought to New York to answer for the theft he was charged with. Girl and Mother in Grave Condition

Moorefield School Teacher Attacks Mother and Slashes Own Throat

BATESVILLE, March 27.—Miss Viola Goodwin, aged 25, and her mother, Mrs. J. P. Goodwin, of Moorefield, five miles east of Batesville, are at the point of death as a result of an attack on the mother yesterday afternoon by the daughter armed with a heavy hammer and a razor.

Goodwin, who has been an invalid for two years as a result of a broken hip, was approached by the daughter with the statement that it was time for both to die and after striking the mother several blows with the hammer, slashed her throat with the razor.

Her father, J. P. Goodwin, also was attacked, but before he could stop her the daughter slashed her own throat, severing the windpipe and partly cutting her jugular vein. Physicians are hopeful for recovery of the daughter, but the mother has little chance for recovery.

Miss Goodwin finished her high school education at Batesville a few years ago and since has been teaching in the public schools in this county. She recently was forced to resign because of a nervous breakdown and friends report that she has been subjected to attacks of extreme nervousness, but was not considered dangerous.

She always has borne a high reputation. In her rational moments today she insisted that "an old man" committed the crime, although her father reached the house before she attempted to kill herself and no one doubts that her acts were done in a fit of despondency and unbalanced mind.

"Panic-Starters" Newest Show Term

There are train-starters, bus-starters, automobile race-starters and airplane starters. Now comes "panic-starters."

In the vernacular of showmen a panic-starter is a man who starts a panic. A panic is, in the language of theatre managers, an uproarious hubbalooboo of audience laughter caused by the rib-tickling antics of a sure-fire comedian.

There are three panic-starters in "Roadhouse Nights" the Paramount smash-riot which comes to the Senguer theatre for two days beginning on Friday. They are Clayton, Jackson and Durante, veteran laugh-provokers who have amused night club devotees on Broadway for years. They are making their film debut in "Roadhouse Nights."

Helen Morgan of "Show Boat" fame Charles Ruggles, who was the drunkard reporter in "Gentlemen of the Press" and Fred Kohler famous heavy villain of the silversheet, are featured in the principal roles.

'Looping Mildreds' Vie For Honors in Stunting

ST. LOUIS, March 28.—(P)—It took a Mildred to take the woman's looping record from a Mildred.

Mildred Stinaff, 18-year-old pilot, made 42 consecutive loops in a plane at Akron, O., but 20 days later Mildred Kauffman, 21 years-old, boosted the record by four to 46.

Miss Kauffman may have added 15 loops to Miss Stinaff's record but have obscured her ship from C. F. Schory, official observer for the National Aeronautic association, and the count was restricted to those he could see.

The "looping Mildreds" almost doubled the previous record of 23 loops, made by Dorothy Stocker, of Houston, Tex.

Color in the Camps

BASEBALL seems to have lost a little something since the days when John McGraw, with a stern frown, used to survey Pitcher Otis Crandall's robust waist line and ask him if he had been spending his winter appearing in a show with a stout lady. It has lost something of color. But there still come stories from the camps in the south and on the coast, of rookies brave and bold. Tales of these deeds travel from camp to camp and soon become part of baseball's legendary lore.

Over at Clearwater, Fla., the other day I watched Dazzy Vance playing his strange game of hunt. Pitchers young and old follow him about the park, as he lays them down, moving backward with each hunt. Uncle Robbie looks on from the bench, wearing a cherubic smile and applauding as some rookie pitcher sets a record. Dazzy keeps careful count of the bunts each pitcher fields. It is back-breaking, wind-taking toil, but one rookie pitcher the other day fielded 280 of the vicious bunts and set a record for all time. Crowds gathered and handed the rookie the Bronx cheer.

Roth Mistaken for Rupert

SOMEBODY told the veteran, Charley O'Leary, coach for the Yankees, that Hank Gowdy was bragging around in public that he probably would have to catch a whole lot this year.

"Yeah," said Charley. "Well, if Hank catches a game, I'll promise to hunt one and beat it out."

Secretary Mark Roth of the Yankees doesn't look much like Colonel Rupert, but several of the tourists in St. Petersburg have asked him if he didn't think Ruth really was worth $80,000 a year. Mark said he became so impressed with the tourists' mistakes, that he found himself reaching into his pocket to see if $80,000 were really there.

Waite Hoyt, the Yankees' young veteran, came up with a snappy reply the other day when young Henry Johnson asked him what he should do to become a first class pitcher.

"Go buy yourself a hat," said

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Whether or not anybody else thinks so, Dan Howley of the Cincy Reds believes the Boston Braves will make considerable trouble in the National League this year. . . . Dan says the Braves have several high class players who will be molded into a pretty fair team by McKechnie. Critics believe Leo Durocher will get his first real chance this year to show his marvelous fielding ability. They say Leo in the past has been too fast for his second basemen and never was able to do himself justice. . . . One thing sure, if Durocher is too fast for Hughey Critz, he's just too fast for any use and might as well be junked. . . . Harry Heilmann says major league scouts spent a lot of time and money trailing two Portland stars, both past 35 years of age, back in 1914. . . . "All the time they were looking these two old men over, Dave Bancroft, Carl Mays and myself were playing on the team," said Harry.

Waiter, Henry, you know, comes from Bradenton, which is the training camp of the Cardinals. Inasmuch as all the youthful sheiks in Florida go hatless, Henry isn't so much out of line. Young Henry Greenberg, of the Tigers, who is 6 feet 3, wears a hat but it is hardly worth mentioning, as his size is 6 1/2.

Never Heard of Shires FROM San Antonio comes a tale of young Len Shires, brother of Art. It seems Len was sporting a diamond of tremendous tonnage. A young negro who works around the clubhouse was admiring its sparkle and asked where he got it. "From my brother, Art," said Len.

"Who's Art?" asked the boy. "Who's Art?" replied Len, astonished. "Say, do you know who Lincoln was?"

Sparklers Go Into Semi-Finals by Defeating Oklahoma Presbyterians

Arkansas Girls Humble College Sextet, 22 to 14, but Monticello Aggies Are Beaten by Sunoco Oilers of Dallas

WICHITA, Kas., March 28.—(AP)—College team of Durant, Okla., 22 to 14. The Sparklers of Sparkman, Ark., entered the semi-final round of the fourth annual A. A. U. girls basketball tournament here last night by defeating the Oklahoma Presbyterian

Pupil Topples Master's Own World Hurdles Mark in Illinois Relay

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 28.—(AP)—Fate played a trick on Charles "Chick" Werner, Illinois university track coach, when in the recent Illinois relay carnival, his star pupil, Lee Sentman, shaved two-tenths of a second off the world hurdles record. Werner was a co-holder of the old record. Breaking world's marks has become a habit with the spindly-legged Sentman. He shattered the world's record in the 70-yard high hurdles in the Big Ten indoor meet and eight days later broke the 75-yard high hurdles mark twice within the space of four hours. He streaked over the course in .09 3-10 in the preliminary carnival competition to break the world mark of .09 4-10. In the semi-final heat he trimmed another tenth of a second with a time of .09 2-10. Fifteen minutes later he repeated this time in the final heat. Sentman is "all legs." He can jump 6 feet in the high jump, broad jump 23 feet, and run the 75-yard dash in 8 seconds. Even walking about the campus he has developed a peculiar springy gait, in which he places the ball of his foot down first to strengthen the muscles of his legs.

over the Oklahoma Presbyterians. On the Durant team was Norma Montgomery, crowned tournament beauty queen last night. Miss Montgomery scored eight points to 16 for Miss Hamm. The Oklahomans led at half-time, 9 to 8.

In a free throwing contest conducted at intervals all day, Myrtle Brockner of the Wichita (Kan.) Thurstons, won first with 39 goals out of 50 tries. Helen Hicks of the Arkansas Aggies, Monticello, was the runnerup with 38.

Defending their championship, the Sunoco Oilers from Dallas, Tex., advanced to the semi-finals with a decisive 59-22 victory over the Arkansas Aggies from Monticello, Ark. Tomorrow night the Sunoco sextet will clash with the Dallas Cyclones, runner-up for the 1929 title.

The champions led at half time by 30 to 13. The Randolph College team from Cisco, Tex., eliminated the Wichita (Tex.) Wallenstein-Raffman sextet, 34 to 26, in a quarter final round game earlier in the evening. Producing a hard-driving offensive, the Texans led all the way.

The Dallas Cyclones also swept aside the Birmingham (Ala.) Western Unions, 40 to 17. There was nothing in the battle of the two scrapping sextets clad in shorts to recall the mildly played game of the "bloomer" girls of five years ago. One girl went out with injuries. Time was called once to revive an Alabama player who was groggy after a spill with a Cyclone cager. As the game ended two rival players were ready to mix with fists but teammates intervened.

Semi-finalists in the consolation round were determined this afternoon. Lowe Campbell of Kansas City defeated the Central Kansas Oilers from Leon, 65 to 10, to qualify to meet the Detroit Centrals, who defeated the Chicago (Ill.) Indians, 34 to 14.

In the other bracket will be the Sparkman (Ark.) Sparklers who eliminated the Prairie View (Kan.) Pirates 41 to 25, and the Wichita Thurstons, who defeated the Columbus (Ga.) sextette, 33 to 22.

Conway Star Will Enter Texas Relays

Eugene Hunnicutt to Specialize in Throwing Discus and Shot Put

CONWAY, Ark., March 28.—(AP)—Eugene Hunnicutt, Arkansas Teachers College cinder track and field star, has announced his intention of entering the Texas Relays at Austin March 28. Hunnicutt will specialize in putting the shot and throwing the discus, restricting his entry to those two events. During spring practice Hunnicutt has put the 16-pound shot some few inches over 47 feet. The Arkansas record of Hendrix, 54 feet, one and one-half inches. It was considered likely here today Hunnicutt will enter the national intercollegiate at Chicago in the event his performance at Austin comes up to expectations.

to be long in the "if and but" class. The gent who can unravel them in advance not only could clean up financially but win the Tunney-Muldoon award for something or other. If Sharkey doesn't show any more cloutier stardom at least an even chance against Schmeling than he did in the bally affair with Scott, the German to belt the Boston sailor completely out of the picture. Schmeling will knock Sharkey's ears off if Jack comes tearing in, wide open and wild, the way he did against the fragile Philip Suffling. Max, it is safe to assume, has no vulnerability in the sciotic nerve or the Achilles heel. He can PUNCH, which is something Sharkey failed to do against Scott and a few others. On the other hand, Sharkey may decide to have one of his good nights. If so, he should outpoint Der Mexico handily, if not actually knock him out. Sharkey always has had championship stuff in him but manifests it only now and then.

Carnera is still the big mystery man of the ring. Those who have seen him either regard him as a freak and no fighter at all or a mauler who has the speed, punch and size to beat anything in heavyweight costume. Willie Strubling thinks Carnera can fight but Willie, only a light heavy and not much of a puncher, had Carnera on the floor. The testimony of Big Boy Peterson, Farmer Lodge and a few others who have collapsed at the approach of the Carnera Clout, can be ruled out as prejudiced. There will be no answer to the Primo puzzle until he steps into a legitimate match with some capable fighter such as Campolo, who is nearly a match in size to the Italian and a terrific right-hand hitter. Johnny Risko, having demonstrated Campolo was not too big for him as the New York commission feared, would be only too glad to work on Carnera.

At the moment, probably Jack Dempsey himself cannot say whether or not he will don the gloves again for anything more serious than the movies. A year ago, Dempsey considered his fighting career definitely over but shifting financial fortunes may have changed his view. The old mauler knows better than anyone else the difficulties of getting into condition after a three-year lay off. He knows, too, that against a young, sharp puncher of the Tunney type he might suffer serious injury to his eyes. They came out of the two Tunney battles badly damaged. The proper financial inducements may be the compelling factor in a Dempsey come-back but it is doubtful he will attempt to fight unless he

Rookies Get Glad Hand From Boss

Comments Upon Each One with Much Enthusiasm

SAN ANTONIO, March 28.—(AP)—Sitting deep in a dugout, protected from a cutting wind that kept his players hustling, John McGraw watched what will be his twenty-eighth Giant machine make ready for another campaign.

It will finish, he hopes, at the top of the National League standing. He would like to win another flag—maybe four or five—before he calls it a day. But he is not certain his present veteran team can turn the trick. His eyes, on this particular day, were for the youngsters who might supply the necessary spark next year, or the next.

He was watching Bill McWilliams, a husky lad from the Chicago sandlots, made hard ones look easy around third base. McWilliams is only 19. "His father sent me a nice letter about him. Said he thought maybe the boy had the making of a ball player and wanted me to find out. If not, he's going to send him back to school. I'm going to do my best to get his name on a contract."

For another ten minutes McGraw riveted his attention on Francis Healey, an 18-year-old catcher from Memphis, whom the fellows say swings just like old Sam Crawford; Eddie Marshall, youngster trying to beat Andy Reese out of the second base post and Jim Tennant, a 190-pound rookie with a blazing fast ball.

He commented upon each one with some enthusiasm, but never gave the veterans romping around the lot a tumble.

"Why worry about those fellows, he explained at one time. 'I know what they can do.'"

Developments may make 1930 one of the most interesting of fistic years, even though the Miami Meles started nothing more than a flock of arguments. With Sharkey, Campolo, Carnera, Schmeling, Risko, Griffith and a few others around, most anything can happen among the heavyweights.

Trains Kill Many Wild Deer Than Lions or Coyotes in Rockies

GLACIER PARK, Mont., March 23. More wild deer probably have been killed by railway trains in the rocky mountains this winter than all the mountain lions and coyotes have slaughtered and eaten. And Uncle Sam can do nothing about the matter. He can't keep the winter-driven animals off the right of way. The trainmen are heartily every time they run down a doe: they have their schedule to make, however, and can't slow down. So there's the dilemma of these tragedies of the wilds. Fencing ten miles of mountain forest along a railway is out of the question, unless one of the Montana congressmen gets an appropriation for such a protective measure. Ardent nature lovers contend preservation of deer life is worth such an expenditure.

Five Whit House Widows Nowe

WASHINGTON, March 27. — The recent death of William Howard Taft adds a fifth name to the nation's list of widows of former presidents. Mrs. Taft, now 68, is still remembered as the hostess at the silver wedding anniversary celebration at the White House in 1911, when she and Mr. Taft entertained 5000 persons at a garden party. Her four years there, from 1909 to 1913, were replete with many brilliant events, as the Tafts were famous as entertainers.

HARRIMAN, Tenn., March 27. — (AP) — Because she was "in trouble," a 28-year-old mother hanged herself in her log cabin home and drowned or smothered to death her three young sons last night at d'Armond, a hamlet near here, John Hendrix, chief of police here, said. Hendrix said his investigation indicated that Mr. and Mrs. Welsh were on good terms and that the husband recently had sent money for the support of his wife and their three children, Freddie, 8, Edgar, 7, and Sherman, 5.
